1.0 – Introduction

This Report, as usual, presents an appraisal of the implementation of the 2020 Approved Budget as at the end of the Third Quarter covering the period January to September. It builds on the preceding Mid-Year report for the period of January to June to provide a more comprehensive picture of budget performance. Essentially, the report presents the revenue and expenditure performance through variance analysis, examination of the pattern, trends and composition of the both the revenue and expenditure outturns vis'a'vis the approved estimates. With only three months to the end of the Fiscal Year, the report will also try to provide some insights and recommendations aimed at achieving higher performance during the remaining period and addressing any possible issues observed that may be inimical to achieving the objectives of the budget.

2.0 - The 2020 Appropriation Law and the Effects of the COVID-19 Pandemic

The 2020 Approved Estimates backed by Law No. 11 of 2019 was conceived to sustain “Next Level Economic Growth and Social Transformation” Agenda of the State Government. This Law appropriated the sum of ₦152.92 billion for the 2020 Fiscal Year with almost 50:50 split between recurrent and capital expenditures. Even though the budget was very realistic, comprehensive and consistent with the policy objectives and priorities of the State, the global and domestic socioeconomic impact of the COVID-19 Pandemic makes the budget no longer practicable to be implemented as originally conceived. The macroeconomic assumptions that informed initial MTEF projections were no longer realistic as a result of the global economic crises that devastated almost all sectors. While an oil price of US$55 per barrel was assumed in the Projection Model, at a point, this has dropped to less than US$20 during the first quarter of the fiscal year. In the same vein, other parameters such as oil production levels, inflation rate, economic growth rate (as measured by GDP) and the ratio of mineral revenues that goes into the Federation Account were all adversely affected. Matters were made worst by the “lockdowns” that adversely affected movements of people, goods and services. In the midst of the financial meltdown and fiscal uncertainties, the 2020 Approved Estimates was revised to address the fiscal constraints which could completely derailed budget implementation as well as ensure that budgetary provisions are made to address the social and economic impacts of the pandemic on the people and the State’s economy.

3.0 – The 2020 Revised Budget

The 2020 Budget was tagged “Budget of Sustained Economic Growth and Social Transformation - Meeting the Next Level Agenda” While the revised Budget still has this goal, majorly its objectives is to mitigate and contain the socioeconomic impacts of the COVID-19 Pandemic on the People and the State’s economy. With over 12% of the revised estimates directly earmarked for COVID-specific expenditure, the revised Budget still aims to sustain access to and quality of human development services particularly in the area of Education, Health and Economic Empowerment.

Following a review of the macroeconomic framework as contained in the 2020 – 2022 MTEF, the 2020 Approved Budget was revised from N152.92 Billion as provided under Law No. 11 of 2019 to N124.357 Billion provided under the new Law No. 1 of 2020 – a reduction of over N28.56 billion equivalent to about 19% of the original budget. An overview of the details of the Revised Budget

3.0 – Third Quarter Performance Appraisal of the Budget as Revised

This section provides general appraisal of the revenue and expenditure performance at the aggregate level. As presented Table 2, the assessment covered various income and expenditure components which was summed up from the income and expenditure outturns across MDAs and Sectors.

Table 2: General Appraisal of Revenue and Expenditure Performance

From both the income and expenditure sides as depicted in Table 2 above, Budget Implementation during the first nine months of the fiscal year indicated a very impressive and satisfactory performance with 111.5% and 83.6% implementation rates respectively compared against the revised budget estimates. The performance with the respect to flows of income was so impressive that even without the Opening Balance of over N14.9 Billion, performance would still have been over 95%. However, this magnitude of Opening Balance has contributed to the positive variance of about 11.5% during the period. Compared against the original approved budget of N152.92 Billion, the pro-rated performance would still have been almost 91%. It is worthy of note that both the two income components – recurrent revenues and capital receipts – performed credibly well with positive variances of about 20.2% and 13.1% respectively. From whatever perspective the performance is analyzed, the budget performance with respect to income flows was indeed very impressive during the period.

Total aggregate expenditure variance was about minus 16.4%, which, as earlier mentioned, was also a very satisfactory performance. While recurrent expenditure performance was as high as almost 93%, capital expenditure was 72.4%. The relatively high negative capital expenditure variance of over 27% may be seen as the only down side with regards to budget implementation as at the end of the Third Quarter. With the benefit of hindsight, it is envisaged that the full year report will indicate a Capital Expenditure performance that would be at par with the other components – several road projects contracts were awarded early in October which would significantly contribute to higher capital expenditure outturns at the end of the year.

3.1 - Revenue Performance

As mentioned from the onset, based on the revised budget estimates, there was an overall reduction of over N28.5 billion in the expected income for the financing of the budget equivalent to over 18.5% of the original estimates. The extent of the reduction as necessitated by the socioeconomic crises occasioned by the COVID-19 Global Pandemic was limited due to additional recurrent revenues factored into to the revised budget estimates. These revenues, comprising of PAYE Refund by the Federal Government, SFTAS Grants and COVID-19 Donations, helped to limit the severity of fiscal crises. Without these, the revised budget would have been over N36.4 billion less than the original approved estimates.

Details of the various revenue components for both recurrent incomes and capital receipts with their corresponding outturns and pro-rated performance are presented in Table 3. On the recurrent revenue side, most of the income sources indicated significant positive variances that culminated in the overall positive variance of about 11.5%. Receipts from other Statutory Transfers from the Federal Government largely comprising of Exchange Rate Gain Allocation, Excess Bank Charges and Distribution of Solid Mineral Revenue among others, also significantly contributed to the impressive performance with an accrual of almost N4 billion in nine months against an expectation of only N1.5 billion in the revised budget or N4.5 billion in the original estimate. The only significant downside is the with respect to Other Capital Receipt where only about N9.5 billion was recorded as the outturn during the period against the revised estimate of about N14 billion yielding a negative variance of almost 60%. These are however mostly grants with contra-entries on the expenditure side with no general effect on the entire expenditure side of the budget. In addition to the summarized details of the revenue performance, details by Agencies and revenue items are also provided in the Appendices to this narrative report.

3.2 - Expenditure Appraisal

The expenditure side of the performance appraisal as at the end of September indicated about 83.6% budget implementation rate or a negative variance of about 16.4%. This is adjudged to be very satisfactory. Table 3 gives the performance across the various expenditure components.

As could be seen, at the aggregate level, the performance across the two major components varied – with a recurrent and capital expenditure performances of about 93% and 72% respectively. With a negative of only about 7%, the recurrent expenditure performance is indeed, very excellent. Even at that however, looking at the recurrent expenditure constituents provides additional insights – 100% performance with respect to personnel cost; almost 83% performance for overheads and other recurrent expenditures; over 182% on public debt charges; and just about 38% for Stabilization. The extraneously high positive variance with respect to PDC was based on the expectation of waiver on debt repayments due to the economic impact of the COVID-19 Pandemic which led to a reduction in the estimate from N4.5 billion in the original budget to N1.56 billion in the revised estimates. Because the waiver was late in coming, the outturn during the period turned out to be much higher than the revised estimates, hence the disproportionately high positive variance of almost 83%. With regards to overhead cost, there was a downward expenditure trend at the peak of the pandemic during the second quarter as clearly visible in the chart depicting the outturns in the Three Quarters. This partly affected the expenditure outturns leading to a relatively higher negative variance of up to about 19%. All these however has not significantly affected the overall recurrent expenditure, which as highlighted was as much as almost 93%.

Even though as presented in Table 3 above, the capital expenditure performance of about 72% is relatively less satisfactory compared to recurrent expenditure, this could still be seen as excellent especially when compared against the outturn as at the end of the second quarter when performance was reported to be only about 47%. This indicates a heightened capital expenditure implementation rate during Q2 which is expected to continue throughout Q4. The trend suggests a much more impressive capital expenditure at the end of the year. Consistent with the proportionate distribution of the capital expenditure estimates across the four sectors, about 95% of the outturns were in the Economic and Social Sectors with about N14.27 billion and N14.9 billion respectively which are respectively equivalent to about 46.5% and 48.6% of the total outturns. The proportional distributions of both the revised estimates and respective outturns are presented in Table 4. Even though outturns in the Administrative and Law & Justice Sectors are relatively small in absolute terms, these are however,

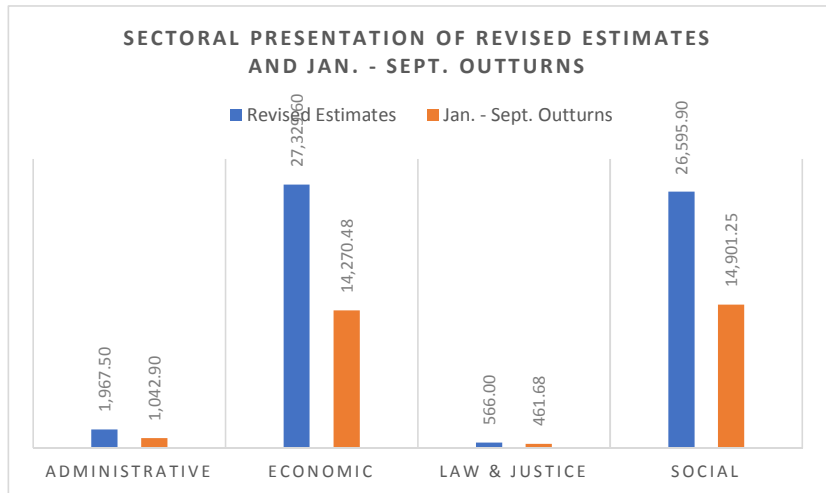

Table 4: Proportionate Distributions

Sector	Revised Estimates	Jan. - Sept. Outturns
Administrative	3.5%	3.4%
Economic	48.4%	46.5%
Law & Justice	1.0%	1.5%
Social	47.1%	48.6%
Total	100.0%	100.0%

proportionate to the Revised Estimates. This goes to show that the capital expenditure pattern is very consistent and evenly spread – no sector is left behind in terms of funding proportionate to the approved allocation to the sector. Details of the actual expenditure performance are presented in the appendices indicating the original and revised estimates, the outturns for the period of January to September, the computed pro-rated performance, variances and balances – detailed for all projects and programs across all Ministries, Department and Agencies in the four Sectors.

- Conclusion and Recommendations

In conclusion therefore, the third quarter budget implementation report indicated a very impressive performance for both the aggregate revenue and expenditure components at about 112% and 83% respectively. In addition, most of the key components of these also equally indicated excellent performance. Even though the socioeconomic effects of the COVID-19 which necessitated for a review of the 2020 Approved Estimates has resulted in less satisfactory performance during the Second Quarter, it is apparently clear that budget implementation was backed on track during the third quarter. Maintaining the same trajectory in the fourth quarter would lead to an excellent full-year budget performance for all aspects and components of the budget. This is exactly what needs to be done throughout the remaining period of the year through speeded up procurement processes and commencement of new projects so that they become ongoing projects into the next fiscal year. Obviously, with higher budget implementation performance, comes more budgetary outputs and outcomes leading to the attainment of the objectives of the budget. Sustaining the third quarter trend will significantly contribute to attainment of the objective of sustaining the “Next Level Economic Growth and Social Transformation” Agenda of the State Government. With the overarching objective of continuous improvement in the socioeconomic wellbeing of the citizens.
